I feel the need to update this previous submission. I have tried the [REDACTED] sided with the insurer [REDACTED]. While i am continuing the issue i need to point out one clear and requiring problem.

I can't work out , in a criminal court that is (beyond reasonable doubt) if the prosecuted lies three times it is an immediate loss in that case. So if a Engineer lies three time in support of the insurance company at a 49/51 setup ,why that does not go to the favour of the insured? Peter
