dear sir,i am writing to you in regard to the banking commission that has revealed the big four banks of australia to be corrupt beyond all belief and the hardship this has caused home owners and farmers across australia,the solution for this uncalled for state of affairs is to break up the big four banks by introducing glass -steagall banking separation, this would separate banks away from the very risky area of speculation ,financial markets, commodity markets and derivatives. this should be followed by starting a national bank to issue the credit for large infrastructure projects for water , transport electricity generation and many more projects that would create long term employment for many australians
