To those looking after the Royal Commission into banking,

I would like to have a voice and to be heard. I agree with the banks being divided to protect the wealth of the innocent. It is a disgusting position that the banks have established with their greed. Making the innocent vulnerable after working all their lives. The banks then come in and steal to cover their own misdeeds. How deployable. How disgusting. It really is simple, why are they making it so complicated. They do not want to admit they have failed the community. Lets get on with it.

Concerned Citizen. Lois Pinnell.
