I strongly agree that there should be legislated structural change of our current banking system. This commission has clearly already demonstrated the fraudulent and criminal activity going on with our current banking system and institutions. This points out the failure of not only the system but also the regulatory body APRA and its involvement in allowing this activity to exist. Glass-Steagall structural separation of banks would stop banks from owning, and therefore looting, super funds, and the Banking System Reform (Separation of Banks) Bill 2018 has already been tabled in Parliament to make this happen. If you need to, refresh your memory on the stunning scale of the banks' looting of superannuation by reviewing our 1 August Media Release, "Only Bob Katter's Separation of Banks bill will stop the banks from looting your superannuation".
