I strongly believe and respectfully submit that if we bring in a Glass Steagal type law (as written by Robert Barwick from the CEC, introduced into parliament on June 25th 2018 by the Honourable Bob Katter and seconded by the Honourable Andrew Wilkie) we could separate commercial banks from investment banks, thus enabling economic stability for Australia and the world (other countries who are showing interest may follow suit such as the US, England, Italy etc) and this bill can also force the profit-thirsty private banking sector into a position of much increased accountability and put an end to the vertical integration structure which preys on the often less informed public who are already in a vulnerable condition due to heavy taxation and a top-heavy government/cooperate/financial elite control matrix. My unlimited gratitude to all of you for your sense of justice and your giving opportunity for the public to make submissions.
