Dear Parliamentarians, I wish to add my voice to the current issue of denying the banks the opportunity of controlling Superannuation funds. The banks have clearly demonstrated their inability to behave in an ethical way and we would have no guarantee that they would not syphon off funds if they are in control of Super. Please ensure that the Glass-Steagall legislation is enacted to separate banking from investment activities. This will provide better protection for the citizens of Australia. Thankyou for your attention.
