Dear Comission into Bank Behavior The fraudulent behavior of [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] in fleecing superannuation funds by overcharging fees to the funds and then the trading positions that create a loss for the super fund but a profit for the bank is just criminal. The chaiman and directors of these financial institutios should be held accountable for their thievery. Over charging fees to the tune of 700 billion dollars in the last 25 years to the super fund holders is criminal. The banks are stealing from me and every other superannuation holder. These Banksters need to be held to account. I suggest the amnesty on fraudulent behavior be removed and every major bank director serve a jail sentence. [REDACTED] senior administration needs to stand in the docks with the bank directors. [REDACTED] ust aid and abet the banks to steal money from every day Australians. [REDACTED] is providing the framework for the banks to steal my money. The framework of the commission needs to be expanded to put [REDACTED] into the firing line. There needs to be a separate commision now set up to investigate [REDACTED] I think that the two major political parties in Australia aid and abet the banks. These parties receive donations from the banks. My stolen money in essence. I can see one initial solution. This is the implementation of the "Separation of powers" bill introduced by Bob Katter MP to stop some of the criminal behavior of the Banksters
Yours Sincerely Terence Douglas [REDACTED]
