It horrifies me that such blatant usury and criminality has been common place by the banks in Australia with complete disregard for their customers. The banks should not be able to have anything to do with superannuation and insurance. such conflicts of interest seems to be what they do as the norm. The banks show that they completely have no capacity to regulate themselves as they do not think they have done anything wrong. The Bob Katter Bill in the house [Banking Reform Bill 2018] Glass Steagall style banking separation needs to be debated and passed to regulate the banks by the people via the parliament. This bill was seconded by the dedicated Andrew Wilkie. This bill will stop vertical integration .

[REDACTED] here needs to be an expansion of the terms of reference so the Commissioner can carry out a continuing investigation . This is what the Australian people are demanding. Enough is enough.
